

Reinach

Mr. Reinach begs to announce his return from New York with a choice selection of the very latest importations, and is prepared to make a showing to-morrow such as has never been displayed in Richmond heretofore. See these novelties before buying elsewhere.

Pompons, Cockades,
Fancy Wings and Birds,
Chenille Bands, Black and Colored Beavers,
Felt and Flare Hats, Ostrich Plumes, Tinsel Trimming.

The New Millinery Store, 427 East
Broad Street.
Next to Fourquaren, Temple & Co.

Prices to suit the most modest purse.

THE TIMES-DISPATCH GENEALOGICAL COLUMN MEAD FAMILY OF VIRGINIA

MEAD ARMS. 1569.

Mead or Meade.

The name Mead is derived from Meadow, and is found in the earliest writs of Parliament and the Hundred Rolls, time of King John, where we find John-atte-Meadow, William-atte-Meadow, and William-de-Medward, meaning John or William at the Meadow and William of the Meadows. By many vicarious modes of spelling it assumed Mead, Meade, and finally to Meade or simple Mead. Each of these, however, represent a separate branch of the same old English stock, some of which floated over to America during the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers in Massachusetts Bay. The "History of Orange, N. Y.," says that the name Mead is recorded in the English College of Heraldry as early as 1558. Among the most prominent of the Scotch representatives of the family was the Earl of Clanwilliam. The founder of the English branch was granted arms, viz: "Sable, a chevron or, bet. three pelicans, vulned of the last. Crest: An eagle sable, displayed, beaked and armed, or. Motto: 'Tojour pret.' The eagle in the crest was given to Sir Robert Meade for his service in the cause of the German Empire in the wars of Gustavus Adolphus. The chevron indicates the head of the house, or commander of an expedition. The pelican is used in armorial emblem of tenderness for their offspring, or undying devotion to the country's cause. The line of Mead can be traced directly to the eminent Dr. Richard Mead, physician to George II. Another Dr. Mead of the family is said to have married Queen Elizabeth. The first we have of the name in this country is Gabriel Mead, born 1687, died 1698. This family is supposed to have come from Kent county, England. The name is said to have been first settled at Weatherhead, Conn., but in 1641 moved to Stamford, Conn. From this branch of the family has always retained its original form of Mead; the others who wandered to the South and West having corrupted the name by adding a final 'e' or 's.' William Mead is said to have been a brother of Gabriel, the ancestor of the Massachusetts Meads. This William first settled at Weatherhead, Conn., but in 1641 moved to Stamford, Conn. From this branch of the family has always retained its original form of Mead; the others who wandered to the South and West having corrupted the name by adding a final 'e' or 's.'

Wanted Immediately.

We wish to secure a Manager, also Canvassers, for every city and county in the State. We will manage the business of selling all the leading magazines at about one half of publishers prices. We want the best help we can get to push this work, and will require good reference from all applications.

WE GIVE BELOW A FEW SAMPLE COMBINATIONS. If you want to see more, write us for our New Fall Catalogue, with over three thousand publications. If your city or county is not already represented, and you wish to put in an application, please do so at once, as we want to get the work started at the earliest possible moment. News-Dealers, Publishers, and Postmasters can well take up this WORK and it will be a great help in their business. Write us for full information. Anybody for the present can send in their orders to the State Office, or write for a full catalogue. New Canvassers will also write to the State Office for full information. It will be a steady job, growing month by month and year by year.

Campbell's Ill. Journal, $1.00
Criterion, 1.00
Household Ledger, 1.00
Medical Talk, 1.00
Nat. Ill. Magazine, 1.00
Woman's Magazine, 1.00
Review of Reviews, 1.00
The Criterion, 1.00
World's Work, 1.00
Current Literature, 1.00
Success, 1.00
Madame, 1.00
Medical Talk, 1.00

Medical Talk 60 cents and How to Live $1.00. Both of these only $1.00. All these prices, mean for one year, mailed to you direct by the publishers. This AD. may not appear again, so you had better give this matter your immediate attention.

THE GRIMPAUX NEWS & SUBSCRIPTION CO.
R. A. HARRISON, State Manager, PETERSBURG, VA.

of the Ridgefield and North Fairfield county Meads, and left Zachariah, Joseph, Daniel, Elisha, Richard and Mary. John Mead (1), born about 1634, married Hannah Potter, of Stamford, 1657, died 1698. This was the ancestor of the Greenwich, Fairfield county Meads, of whom we have particularly to deal with. He had John (2), Joseph, Hannah, Ebenezer, Jonathan, David, Benjamin, Nathaniel, Samuel, Abigail and Mary. From John (2) were Marcus, Tophier and Jonathan Mead, the latter born at Greenwich, Conn., 1706, and married 1730, Hannah Lyon, born 1707, daughter of Caleb Lyon. They had Zachariah, born 1801; Luther, born 1802, and Bradford L., born 1806. Jonathan Mead married a second time and had five other children, but their names are not known.

Zachariah Mead, the eldest son of Jonathan Mead and Hannah Lyon, married Mrs. Anna Maria (nee Hickman) Otis, granddaughter of General William Hull, Governor of Michigan, and served also during the Revolutionary war. Zachariah Mead studied at Yale College and graduated at the Theological Seminary, Va., in 1820, for the ministry; in 1830 he moved to Virginia, taking charge of several churches in Albemarle county. In 1830 he moved to Richmond, and became editor of the Southern Christian, which he held only a year, dying in 1849. He was the first of the name of Mead to come to Virginia. Bishop Meade of that branch of the Meade family having been born in Clarke county, Va., in 1789, and died in 1862.

The Rev. Z. Mead left three children, the eldest, Edward C. Mead, still living in Albemarle. The second son, William, lost his life in the Confederate cause at Resaca, Ga., 1864, and the only daughter, Annie L., died young. The Rev. G. O. Mead, of Christ Church, Richmond, now represents this branch of the family. Luther Mead, son of Greenwich, Conn., from Bradford L. and his wife, who settled in Ohio, were Marcus, who died 1832; Lucien, married, first, Adeline Arnest, of Ohio; second, Mrs. Fairchild. Eleanor, married John Porter, of Bedford, South Dakota. Arthur, died 1838. Anna Augusta, married Dr. Oliver Laughlin, of Fitchville, Ohio. Louise D., married 1876 E. W. Owens, of Beresford, South Dakota. Adella Mead married, first, Allen Everhart; second, W. H. Gottry. Levi Mead married Grace Wheelock. All the children of Bradford L. Mead were born at New London, Ohio, most of whom are now living in the West.

Of the Meade family with final 'e', there are a much larger number. They are said to have descended from Andrew Meade, the first to come over, who was a Quaker, and settled in New York, where he was educated a Roman Catholic, and first came to New York. He married Mary Katham, a Quakeress, of Flushing, L. I., and moved to Pennsylvania, and then to Virginia, when it was then probable he changed his faith. His only son, David, married under somewhat romantic circumstances, Susannah, daughter of Sir Roland Everard, baronet, governor of North Carolina. David's son, Richard Kidder Meade, was aide-de-camp to General Lincoln. Richard K. Everard and their brother, David, were all educated at Harrow, England, under the care of Dr. Thackeray. Bishop Meade, of Virginia, and General George B. Meade, of the United States Army, are of this line, and their descendants are very numerous and scattered over the whole country. They intermarried with all the principal families of Virginia, where they early became the bulwark of the Episcopal Church, which is still represented by many of their number. A marriage extended notice of both branches of the family (Mead and Meade) can be found in the "Mead Family," recently issued by Spence P. Mead, of New York, who has gathered in 10,000 of the name in one volume, showing the family have fully sustained the honor of filling up the country with brave and talented men and women, who, as their motto, "Tojour pret," shows, are always prepared for every good work in their country's cause, whether in peace or war.

Genealogy of the Winston Family.

Editor of The Times-Dispatch: Sir—In the genealogical sketch of the Winston family, by E. C. M., published in your last Sunday's edition, some inaccuracies occur, which I beg leave to correct.

E. C. M. gives the names of the children of Isaac Winston, the emigrant, who married Mary Dabney, as follows: 1. Isaac, who married Mary Ann Fontaine. 2. Lucy (misspelled Luck), who married, first, William Dabney; second, William Cole. 3. Sarah, who married, first, John Lynne (should be Syme), does not exist. 4. Anthony, who married Alice Taylor. In addition to the above there were two other children, viz: 5. William, the famous Indian fighter and orator (uncle of Patrick Henry), who married Sarah Dabney. 6. Mary Ann, who married John Cole. E. C. M. says that Major Joseph Winston, of King's Mountain fame, was the son of Anthony Winston, whereas his name was Samuel, as is vouched by the fact that William Winston Beaton, the celebrated editor of the National Intelligencer (who was the grandson of Samuel), was a son of William Winston, the son or grandson of William Winston, the oldest of the emigrant brothers, as the name Samuel does not appear among the children or grandchildren of the other two brothers.

The Mr. Winston mentioned as the victim of a murderous assault about 1830, was not "James Winston," but Mr. Joseph T. Winston, a prominent merchant on Main Street, and son of Philip B. Winston, for many years clerk of Hanover county.

James Winston, the Main Street merchant, was a grandson of Samuel Winston, a cousin of the three emigrant brothers, who settled in Henrico county about 1730. James Winston was a Quaker in religion, and followed the profession of teaching and surveying in Richmond and Henry. His wife, the father of James, was a Quakeress, and built the old "Bell Tavern," which formerly stood on Main Street at the corner of or near Fourth Street.

E. C. M. makes no mention of the descendants of the emigrants, William and James. The former are descended the Rutherford, Blairs, Munfords, Sherbards, Radfords and other distinguished families, while from the latter the Winstons, Trices, and other families, and a host of others equally prominent trace their lineage.

More About the Winstons.

Editor of The Times-Dispatch: Sir—The article in your genealogical column of October 21st, entitled "The Winston Family of Virginia," signed E. C. M., is not accurate. It is a piece of E. C. M. had not read the article in your paper of long ago, before writing this or at least have better informed himself about some of these Winstons, who lived in the eighteenth century.

E. C. M. writes of these poor people in a most questioning, doubtful fashion, as though the whole history of the existence might be mythical. He finds it hurtful to his sensibilities that Isaac Winston, the emigrant, was married to a Quakeress, Sarah Dabney, and second, Mary Dabney. This fact is stated by A. G. Grimpaux, genealogist of admitted authority in Virginia. E. C. M. does not put down in his record that the brother of said Isaac (Taylor) was Alice Thornton, daughter of Colonel Francis Thornton. Why should Isaac be forbidden even to Dabney girls? Is there any cogent reason? The paragraph beginning with Anthony Winston, who married Keziah Jones, is in the main correct, though it is only claimed that Mary Bacon Cooper (her mother was Anne Bacon) was a descendant of the same family as General Nathaniel Bacon, the rebel, possibly of that youthful hero.

E. C. M. might have made this paragraph longer, for he could have told that Winston Anthony, married Ann Hancock, over county to Buckingham, in 1774, that he was for some years high sheriff of Buckingham county, a member of the House of Burgesses and of the Patriot Convention of 1775; that he was a captain in the army of the Revolution and a gallant officer. He owned the famous Peter Panicle, to whom he gave his freedom that this strong man might enlist in the patriotic army. He moved to Tennessee in 1801.

In 1811-12 his family (except the two youngest sons) moved to that part of Mississippi territory that now constitutes Madison county, Ala. Anthony Winston and Keziah Jones, his wife, had five sons in the State. John, John W. Warthen, was captain of a company, his brother Anthony was lieutenant and his brother-in-law, John Feltus, was sergeant in the same, and the others in the ranks. Gen. Jackson, near whom the Winstons had lived in Tennessee, was the personal friend of these young men, and gave cheerful testimony of the gallantry of each. (The above is from Wynne's History of the Old Dominion, Vol. 1, p. 100.)

It is a noteworthy fact that William Winston, of Alabama, had one son, John Anthony Winston, who was Governor of Alabama (the first Governor native born); also colonel in Confederate army and elected to represent Alabama in the United States Senate.

One son-in-law, John Jones Pettus, who was also his nephew, Governor of Mississippi, and son-in-law, Robert Burns Lindsay, Governor of Alabama; a nephew, Edmund Winston Pettus, who was a judge, a general in the Confederate army and is now Senator in the United States Senate from Alabama.

The Isaac Winston, who married Olive Mead, never lived in Virginia. All died near Tusculum, Ala. His days shortened by the cruelties inflicted by the Yankees, whose trespass on his property he had resented in a forcible, Winston way.

E. C. M. has some knowledge of the offices held by Colonel John Anthony Winston, of Alabama—none whatever of the man; this lack is evidenced by the "quite a prominent man" phrase as descriptive of him. Colonel Winston was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech. He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

He was a power for good and against evil in his State, and effected many changes in her affairs, and in the lives of his people. He was a leader in men; he was never in a company of men, small or great, that was not impressed by the vigor of his thoughts and the originality of his speech.

SOCIETY

(Continued from Sixth Page.)

And many persons are anticipating with pleasure the opportunity to view the caverns at this most beautiful season of the year, when traveling is such a delight. Through the kindness of Mr. H. L. Lorraine and Mr. W. G. Warthen, a handsome vestibule coach has been placed at the disposal of the excursionists.

All possible care is taken by the managers to make the trip through the subterranean halls comfortable in every way. There are electric lights, cemented walks, brick and stone stairways, and iron railings wherever needed.

Extent, variety and abundance of formations are the items to which the Luray Caverns owe their pre-eminence. No place known offers to scientists more objects for admiration and thought, and it is no uncommon thing for visitors to exclaim: "The half has never been told." Tickets will be placed on sale at the Retreat on Monday.

Blauvelt in Ireland.

Master Roger Walker Mercer received on Saturday a letter from Madame Lillian Blauvelt, who is now in Cork. This is the second letter he has received from her since she has been abroad, and naturally he is quite proud of it.

When Madame Blauvelt was in Richmond the first time she took quite a fancy to Master Roger, and has kept up a correspondence ever since. She will be in New York in December, and will send him her photograph, as Margaret, of the spinning wheel. Master Mercer is the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Mercer.

Mrs. Richard A. Meagher announces the engagement of her daughter, M. Meagher, to Captain Andrews Gonsinski, of the Eighth Battalion of Pioneers, Austria. Miss Meagher, after traveling abroad a year, is at present with her parents on Grace Street.

Cards have been received in Richmond announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Florence Evelyn Bumps, of Dexter, Maine, to Mr. Frank Z. Brown, of this city. Miss Bumps is the eldest daughter of Dr. W. A. Bumps, of Dexter, and is a graduate of the Maine medical circles. Mr. Brown is a consulting engineer of this city, and is also connected with the faculty of two institutions.

The ceremony will be performed Wednesday, November 14th, at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 22 Spring Street, Dexter, Maine.

Mrs. Mary V. Doyle, of McKenney, Va., has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Lizzie Hawthorne, to Mr. Lucius H. Taylor, of North Carolina. The ceremony will take place on the 15th of November at Manson's Church, Dindwille county.

Hallowe'en was celebrated last evening with the same spirit of merriment which has obtained through the years. All the old ghostly charms and superstitions came into play, and lads and lassies sought to invoke the spirit of the future in every known and unknown way. Mrs. James E. Cannon kept Hallowe'en in the most approved way for a number of her friends.

Miss Alice Oley, of No. 43 North Twenty-sixth Street, entertained in honor of her friend, Miss Nellie Graves, of Berkeley, Va.

Grand German Ball.

Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock there will be given at Sanger Hall one of the grand German balls such as is given annually in the "Old Country," which the entire town or village attends—young and old, rich and poor.

They begin just as night falls and continue until the day begins to break. Such will be the case of this "Old Country Ball," only it will begin at 8:30 P. M. and last until the small hours. It is given by the German ladies of this city for a very charitable cause, and will be the first one of its kind ever held in Richmond.

Personal Mention

Dr. and Mrs. Edward Auerador, of Charlottesville, will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otway Allen. They come to attend the Spencer-Coalter wedding.

Mrs. E. B. Spencer and Miss Nellie Hood, who will be here for the wedding, will be with Mrs. St. George Tucker Coalter.

Mrs. T. D. Neale has left for Culpeper to be present there at the Miller-Nelson wedding, an interesting event of this week.

Mr. John Pendleton Kennedy, the new State Librarian, and Mrs. Kennedy, have moved from Washington to Richmond, and are domiciled with friends up-town.

The mid-autumn meeting of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Virginia, which was originally planned for to-day, has been postponed until Wednesday, November 4th. Arrangements have been made to convey the party on that date to Westover, the beautiful home of Mrs. William McCree Ramsey. At the close of the business meeting, including reports, elections, and historical papers, the society will be entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Ramsey.

"The Cavalier" grows better and better with each passing number. October's list is full of things that people enjoy reading in every department. A poem entitled "Childhood," written by Miss Helen Montague and illustrated by Mr. M. M. Straus, is a delightful feature.

Mrs. Louis W. Burton, the wife of Bishop Burton, of Lexington, Ky., is at Miss Pitzer's, No. 11 East Franklin Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Bryn Tennant were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Bryan, at Eagle Point, Gloucester county, Va., last week.

Mrs. Jennie McPhail Welsh will give the opening dance of her class, November 4th, in Kindergarten Hall, Floyd Avenue.

Mrs. William J. Fitzpatrick and her daughter, Miss Ethel Fitzpatrick, will leave Tuesday next to make their home in Boston.

Miss Fitzpatrick, who is a graduate of the Woman's College, will enter the New England Conservatory of Music, and take a special course at Wellesley College.

Mrs. Maggie E. Parrott returned last Thursday from Waco, Tex., after a charming visit to her sister, Mrs. J. E. Pitt.

The many friends of Miss Grace Parrish will regret to learn that she is quite sick, and has been removed from her home, on Hanover Street, to the Virginia Hospital.

"The opening dance of Mr. A. H. Cousins' dancing class will take place next Thursday evening, November 5th, in Marshall Hall, corner Twenty-sixth and Broad Streets. All friends of this class are cordially invited to be present."

Mrs. Hubert Watts, of Lynchburg, Va., is in the city to be present at the wedding of her cousin, Miss Louie Lyons.

Mr. H. B. Fitzhugh and family are at home from Virginia Beach and have moved to No. 7 North Third Street.

The Central Committee of the A. A. A.

Special.... Bargains in Pianos

Slightly Used Uprights,
$115, $150, $175, $185.

A. will meet Tuesday, November 3d, at 4 P. M.

Mrs. Thomas F. Meany, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Rosina Bowers, in Philadelphia, returned to this city Friday night, and will be in the city for a few days.

Mrs. Meany also received treatment from a heart specialist while in Philadelphia, and returns home much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Carter Osterlind have returned home after a visit to New York. They accompanied their daughter, Mrs. Minnie Guenther Kimball, and Dr. Arthur S. Kimball, on their bridal tour as far as the metropolis. Dr. and Mrs. Kimball are now in Battle Creek, Mich., their future home.

Miss Lina Blum has returned home after spending the summer and early fall with her sister, Mrs. David May, of Orange, Va.

CAINES' MILL.

There will be preaching at Walnut Grove Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. C. H. Ryland, to-day at 10:30 o'clock.

Little Joseph McGhee, who has been stricken for the last five weeks with typhoid fever, is improving.

Miss Nannie Beedles has commenced private school at No. 15 schoolhouse.

Miss Ada Martin and Mr. Wesley Martin were married at Gettysburg Christian Church Wednesday.

Willie Hufner, who has been indisposed for several weeks, expects to undergo an operation shortly at his home.

Mr. Cary Beedles has recently been confined to his home with rheumatism.

Mrs. George Parker and Mrs. John A. Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

FOUND A CURE FOR INDIGESTION
I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find that they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different remedies. I am nearly fifty years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to now—Geo. W. Emory, Rock Mills, Alabama. For sale by all druggists.

If you wish to preserve an even temper, and thus help to avoid an evil end, if your mouth don't allow bad tobacco to enter.

But be sure to smoke "MAHOGANY BLEND."

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

ion, of Richmond, are the guests of Mrs. Nannie Adams, near Cold Harbor.

A little colored child, ten years old, recently found a pistol in her brother's pocket and accidentally shot herself through the knee, inflicting very serious wounds.

Little Joseph Campbell is convalescing. Little Nannie Adams is suffering very much from the effects of a rising on his knee.

Mrs. Matthews, near Allen's Mill, is on a visit to friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Little Daney has returned to Richmond after a few weeks' visit to Hanover.

Miss Kate Showers and Mr. Armer Mills were married at Bethlehem Presbyterian Church, Hanover, Wednesday evening in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends. The bride wore white, and carried Bride's roses. Miss Maggie Showers was maid of honor; also wore white, and carried white carnations.

Mr. Charles Boker acted as best man and an elegant reception was tendered at the home of the bride. The presents were both handsome and numerous. Mr. and Mrs. Mills will reside on the estate of Dr. Mills, father of the groom, near Old Church.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.

MAN ABOUT TOWN CIGARS—John Doyle.